

Alexander Hermstad

Holistic Piano Lessons For All Ages

Are you ready to unlock the transformative power of music in your life?

In developing a music practice you are giving yourself a joyous lifelong tool of self-exploration and growth.

But for many of us, music lessons conjure feelings of fear, stress, and shame. Filled with anxiety to please the teacher, the parent, the audience--we disconnect ourself from the gift of transcendent joy that music is trying to offer us.

And it's no wonder. Our traditional music education system is hyper focused on excellence and perfection--intent on creating the next Mozart with each unsuspecting child. While some may thrive in these environments, many burn out and are left behind believing music is beyond them.

We take a different approach. Instead of trying to mold students to pass standardized exams, we prioritize their wholeness and uniqueness as we guide them on their learning journey.

Our method focuses on connecting you to your unique musical voice, and developing technical skills through a uniquely heart-centric practice.

About the Instructor

As a lifelong musician, Alexander is passionate about piano and the music learning process. He believes a more musical world is a more magical world, and is devoted to bringing his wisdom to as many students as possible.

Drawing from his background in yoga and meditation, he aims to deliver a piano teaching method that is fully holistic; focused on empowering the student with musical, mental, and spiritual skills to last a lifetime.
